

JOIN US FOR NATIONAL AI LITERACY DAY

APRIL 19, 2024

Join us on April 19th for a nationwide day of action, inviting students, parents, educators, and other community members as we explore the fundamental question, "What is AI?" This event will offer valuable lessons for classrooms and after-school programs, plus professional development opportunities for educators. With events hosted in local communities and national spotlight events, our mission is to promote AI literacy through education.

Curriculum and Lesson Plans to answer our anchor question: "What is AI?" for all grade levels

Our lesson plans are designed to cover essential questions about AI, safety, and ethics for grades K-12. We offer options for full-day activities as well as shorter 45-minute lessons.

A Day of Learning for Educators Everywhere

With on-demand access to professional learning and a range of special webinars, events, and AMAs throughout the day, this is the perfect opportunity for educators at all levels to expand their knowledge and skills.

Local and National Events to Spur Connection in Communities

A host of affiliate events in states and districts nationwide will bring together organizations for learning, entertainment, and highlighting important work being done. National AI Literacy Day will host three live events in DC, NYC, and Silicon Valley.

Building a network for national AI literacy

From exploring student data privacy to conversations about how AI is shaping the education experience, communities across the US will host parent and student engagement events to deepen understanding and build an AI literacy groundswell.
